Active Pasco warrants link now on PSO website

NEW PORT RICHEY – Pasco citizens can now quickly access active Pasco County warrants via a new link on the Sheriff's Office website, www.PascoSheriff.com.

This link will connect to a page that features the most up-to-date list for active Pasco County warrants. This page will list local Pasco County warrants only. There will continue to be a link on the PSO website that connects to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement website that features all active warrants in Florida. However, there is a built-in delay of several weeks before local warrants are entered into the state database that citizens can view.

If a person believes a Pasco warrant exists and cannot find it on the Pasco Sheriff's Office's website, it is because it has not yet been received by the Warrants Unit. Thus, Warrants Unit clerks will no longer answer questions from the public about the existence of such warrants but will be referred to the website. This ensures that the clerks can best utilize their time inputting the hundreds of warrants received a week into the computer system instead of answering the phone numerous times a day answering questions as to whether or not a person has an active warrant in Pasco County.

This new page can also help citizens inform law enforcement on the whereabouts of people with active warrants. Citizens can continue to utilize the Tips link located on the Contacts section of the PSO website.
