RFQ 1FY20 Question 4:

1. A1.4 of the drawings calls for an APOXI finish on the concrete floor. Was this intended to be EPOXY? Can you please provide the Product Specifications for the material to be used?
 - The “APOXI” flooring finish should be “EPOXY” finish. With the price range in finish I would assume there is a difference in quality. Keeping in mind the facility is for working dogs, we would like something that is more durable and will not have to be refinished frequently. We understand nothing is forever, but we do not want a solution that will have to be refinished every year or so. If from your company’s experience there is a preferred product for our application, please quote that price and feel free to explain if you feel that the price may be greater than a more standard type of application.
